02.08 Bill of Rights

"A bill of rights is what the people are entitled to against every government on earth, general or particular; and what no just government should refuse, or rest on inferences." — Thomas Jefferson

Afraid that government might infringe on individual rights, Congress adopted the first ten amendments to the Constitution in 1791, which are collectively known as the Bill of Rights.

Review the first ten amendments to the Constitution and read the explanation for each one by visiting the National Constitution Center. Use the bar at the top to access and review Amendments 1- 10.

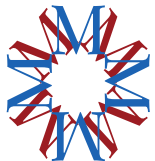

Do you know what your rights are?

Answer each question and make sure to read the feedback given, which will help you understand the first ten amendments to the Constitution.

Do You Know Your Rights?

Answer the following questions by choosing yes or no.

1. Can Congress make a national religion?
